Acupuncture and Reproductive Services at Alternative Medicine Center Fort Lauderdale

Dr. Lorri Beauchamp, Doctor of Oriental Medicine and Licensed Acupuncturist, joins Dr. Gary Snyder, broadening the scope of holistic treatments offered by the Alternative Medicine Center.

Acupuncture has increasingly been found as an effective and natural treatment for today's prevalence of reproductive issues. Many couples choosing parenting in later years are under extreme emotional stress and may suffer from long term effects of environmental toxins, nutritional ailments or birth control, resulting in difficulties in conceiving. Beauchamp developed her reproductive care specialty in Chicago, treating and educating women about health and reproductive issues with nutrition, acupuncture and Chinese herbal therapy, and now brings her expertise to South Florida. "I truly believe most women are fertile. If something is preventing conception and pregnancy, we try to uncover that 'something'," Beauchamp states. "Nature wants this to happen, but only if both mother and child are going to thrive and be healthy. We create individual treatments and therapy for you and your future family."

Beauchamp is certified as a Fellow by the American Board of Reproductive Medicine, earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Nutrition and a Master of Science in Oriental Medicine.
